Conservative, Pragmatic and Proud of the Way We Do Business

Since our founding, Raymond James' primary goal has been to meet the investment and financial planning needs of individuals. It was a novel approach back then, when most firms were focused on little more than selling stocks and mutual funds. And 50 years later, we're proud that we continue leading the way.

That commitment defines everything we do – and determines how we do it – from the time we devote to understanding our clients' personal circumstances to the effort and skill we put into developing plans based on well-crafted solutions. Our goal has never been to be the biggest; it has always been to be the best. That objective is exemplified by our:

- Focus on people, not product
- Conservative approach
- Independent spirit
- Individualized solutions
- Tools and strategies tailored to specific objectives
- Technology that meets client needs

Investments are a means to an end, whether the goal is a comfortable retirement, a grandchild's education or a legacy for future generations. That means our approach is goal-based, not transaction-focused. Our objective is to establish a long-term relationship with you, understand what you hope to accomplish during your life and with your legacy, devise the appropriate goal focused solutions to meet those objectives, monitor results, and suggest and implement changes as needed.

Our recommendations stem from a comprehensive assessment of your complete financial picture, including balancing your shorter-term requirements with your long-term goals and the amount and type of risk you can comfortably and appropriately assume.

W. Bruce Body

Branch Manager and Senior Vice President,
Investments of the Raymond James &
Associates office in Lakewood Ranch.

In our view, while factors such as market fluctuations and interest-rate movements have a significant bearing on your portfolio, our focus should always be whether, at the end of the day, you will have the resources you need to meet your core objectives.

"Each client is different and unique.

Therefore, they should have a customized portfolio."

Services

Investment Management, Bruce creates a customized portfolio based on your personal goals, age, assets, income, taxes, etc. They combine fundamental research and technical analysis to determine which investments are suitable and when to own them.

Asset Allocation Analysis, diversification, rebalancing, and stop orders are used to systematically balance and navigate your portfolio through the volatility of today's markets.

Financial Planning, They will produce a detailed financial plan to help you reach your short and long-term goals. This customized plan may include retirement planning, cash flow analysis, education funding, insurance, estate planning and more.

Advantages of working with Bruce:

- You have the flexibility to choose between fee based accounts: either discretionary or non-discretionary, or a traditional commission account.
- You receive easy-to-read monthly statements and quarterly performance reports.
- He provides year-end reports with essential information to file your tax return and will communicate with your accountant and attorney on tax, estate planning and other needs.
- Bruce will contact you regularly to discuss your account, market conditions, and updates to your plan.

Diversification and strategic asset allocation do not ensure a profit or protect against a loss. Investments are subject to market risk, including possible loss of principal. The process of rebalancing may carry tax consequences. Changes in tax laws may occur at any time and could have a substantial impact upon each person's situation. While we are familiar with the tax provisions, as Financial Advisors of Raymond James & Associates we are not qualified to render advice on tax or legal matters.

More information on Raymond James and Bruce Body may be found at www.RaymondJames.com/BruceBody.

Hiring a Licensed Contractor – What Every Consumer Should Know

The Manatee County Building Department advises the use of only licensed contractors. Most unlicensed contractors are not bonded nor insured and do not pay into the residential contractors' recovery fund or pay any unemployment compensation for their workers. A contractor cannot obtain a license without possessing a minimum amount of experience and must pass a business management test. The contractor may also be subject to a criminal history background check and must not have any outstanding unresolved contracting complaints. This is why unlicensed contractors can often underbid the licensed professional. Florida Statute 489 requires contractors to be licensed. Hiring an unlicensed contractor is a violation of Florida Statute 455.228 and is subject to a fine of up to $5,000.

When hiring a contractor, always ask for their license number and a list of references. You can verify the license number with your local building department or the state at myfloridalicense.com to ensure that they are active and their insurance is up to date.

Please report all unauthorized construction activity to Contractor Licensing at 941-749-3084. More information is available through Manatee County's website at mymanatee.org/home/government/departments/building-and-development-services/building-permitting/contractor-licensing.html or contact Dawn Plavak with the Better Business Council (BBC) at 941-748-1325.

The Manatee Chamber of Commerce named its 2016 Champions of Healthcare at a gala awards breakfast on May 26. More than 350 people attended the awards event in Lakewood Ranch to honor 99 nominees, 23 finalists and 10 award winners.

"Once again this year, we received tremendous support for the Champions of Healthcare Awards," said Jacki Dezelski, Executive Vice President for the Manatee Chamber of Commerce. "These awards celebrate the important work so many people, programs, business and institutions are doing in Manatee County to support healthcare access and delivery, particularly work that is above and beyond anyone's 'day job.' The awards are designed to recognize impact, excellence and dedication. The Champions of Healthcare Awards has become a signature program and this year's program is a testament to the amazing work being done in our community. Added to that is what a great morning it is! We're usually moved to tears because of the generosity and service we hear about during the program."

Plans are already underway for next year's program and it is not too early to begin thinking about nominating a deserving individual, organization, business or program for the awards. It's also not too early to secure your sponsorship for the 2017 Champions of Healthcare Awards. Please contact Jacki Dezelski at 941-748-4842, ext. 131.

The Dangers of WordPress and How to Avoid Them

By Christopher Graser, Last 7 Studios

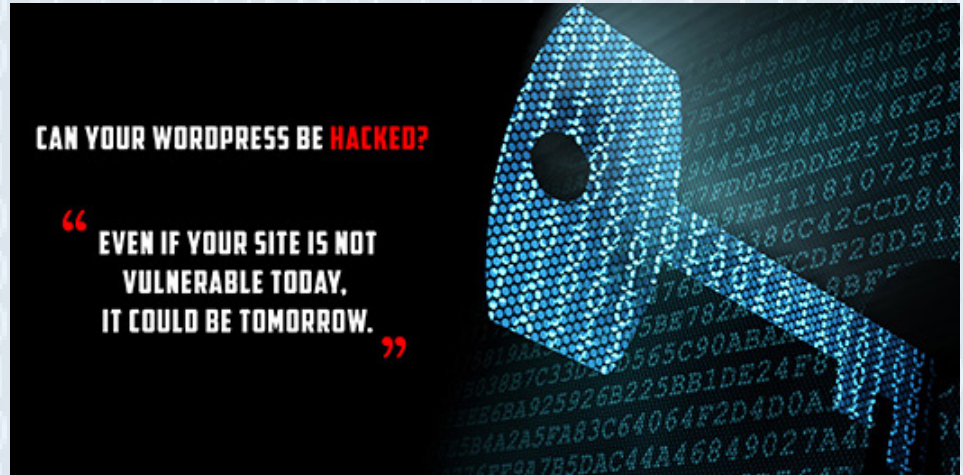

WordPress is hands down the largest content publishing platform on the internet today. With over 75 million active sites, its popularity is hard to ignore. It has tons of features, almost unlimited flexibility, and, best of all, it's free. It is hard to ignore this form of web presence. However, all of the expandability and ease of hosting comes with dangers of which most users are unaware.

WordPress is a wonderful web publishing tool when everything is working properly. Understanding some of the dangers and how to overcome them can be the difference between a secure, fully functional website and one that is not secure, compromised with little effort, and does not function correctly for its users.

The first danger of WordPress is letting it become out of date. At the time of writing, the current version of WordPress is 4.5.2. A majority of the current WordPress websites are more than a few versions behind. WordPress releases updates for their software at a steady pace. As new bugs are found and new security holes are located, they make sure that issues are fixed as quickly as possible while making sure live WordPress sites are not affected. There are some serious reasons that WordPress updates their software as often as they do. Bugs can cause entire websites to vanish in the blink of an eye. Glitches can allow visitors to access the administration control panel or security holes allow malicious users to access all of a site's visitor and/or customer data. All of these things are possible if the WordPress website is out of date.

Is WordPress a more vulnerable platform compared to a traditional website? If maintained properly, no. However, the number of websites using WordPress as a web development platform makes a juicy target for hackers and data thieves, underlining the need to stay on top of updates.

The second danger is the uncertainty of the legitimacy of the plug-ins available for WordPress. The diverse catalog of WordPress features and add-ons available through the WordPress marketplace are not monitored. As a result, with every change that is made to every plug-in or add-on that is submitted, malicious code can be added without WordPress knowing. This leaves a website open to attack or to simply breaking. Sometimes these plug-ins can add backdoors that give access to user credit card information, user personal data, and the business owner's personal information.

What are the options for keeping WordPress updated automatically? The simplest way is by building the website directly on WordPress.com. This ensures that updates are implemented as soon as they are released. The downside is that the business website address would look something like "BusinessName.Wordpress.com", which is not optimal. Alternatively, there are some web hosts that will automatically update WordPress on a daily, weekly or monthly basis. Not all website hosting companies offer this feature, so verify before using the company as the sole provider for updates. Another option is having a web design company maintain WordPress. Often these companies will use WordPress for a percentage of their client base, so they are constantly on the lookout for updates as they are released. Lastly, companies choose to maintain WordPress internally. In the more recent years of WordPress development, a patch (update) alert system has been built into the backend of WordPress. This alerts the Administrator of the site that there is a new patch available for the website. For businesses that rely on their website for day to day sales or content dissemination, they will likely be in the backend of their website on a daily or weekly basis. So these alerts are seen and taken care of as soon as they pop up. For those businesses that are not on their site regularly, these alerts can go unseen.

Unfortunately, there is no surefire way to prevent some of these things from happening. The best steps to take are to limit the plug-ins on the site. In other words, use only the bare minimum required to give the site the functionality needed. When installing a plug-in, check the active number of installs to make sure that the it has more than just a handful of users. When installing a theme for a blog, verify the theme isn't installing dozens of other plug-ins that do not have detailed descriptions of their functions. The most secure way to add additional functionality to a WordPress site is to have the functionality built by a trusted company that develops for WordPress.

WordPress is an amazing platform that has a huge amount of expandability and functionality. As long as it is given the proper attention, it is one of the easiest ways to maintain a web presence. Ensuring that WordPress stays up to date and secure is the key to maintaining a secure and functional website.
